Collective Live-Fire Task Proficiency

Proficiency is based on evaluation of one or more collective live-fire task(s) which are selected and approved by the commander two levels above. The selected task(s) are trained to standard during the unit's collective live-fire gate and evaluated under live-fire conditions. The evaluation and assessment determines the proficiency rating and subsequent progression from one echelon gate to the next. The task conditions and standard are defined by the task(s) training and evaluation outline (T&EO). Refer to the Leader's Guide to Objective Assessment of Training Proficiency chapter 2, section III and appendix D. This and other supporting resources are available on ATN at: <https://atn.army.mil/fouo-content/live-fire-tables/live-fire-tables-listing>
